In addition, I would respectfully request specific responses to each of the following questions by 14 July 1986:

- 1) How has PIC (Private Industry Council) planned for serving the following constituencies:
 - (a) AFDC mothers
 - (b) teenage parents, and
 - (c) displaced homemakers?

What percentage of these populations are targeted in program goals?
- 2) How has PIC coordinated for planning and implementation of support services such as child care, needs-based payments, medical assistance and transportation?
- 3) What is the composition of PIC? What sectors of the community are represented? What percentage of the members are women and minorities? To what degree are community based organizations are represented?
- 4) What has PIC's success rate been in breaking down occupational segregation? What definition of non-traditional jobs for women is used? Does PIC have program goals and implementation plans to promote occupational desegregation? How many programs specifically designed to train women in non-traditional employment are funded?
- 5) How does PIC ensure that child care is available to families needing such services for job training and placement? Has there been any comprehensive evaluations of child care needs and services? If child care is not provided, what are the reasons? Do we have any model child care programs to emulate in other areas?
- 6) What is the planned linkage between JTPA and GAIN recipients regarding child care, training slots, job placement, etc.? What percentage of GAIN participants will participate in JTPA programs? What percentage will be for non-GAIN participants (i.e., new immigrants, women with children under six, parents not receiving AFDC, etc.)? Who will pay for support services to GAIN/JTPA recipients?
- 7) Is PIC studying the national model JTPA programs to implement innovative and efficient policy ideas? Is there a committee studying national JTPA Policy to help reverse the increasing "feminization of poverty"?
- 8) What use has been made of funds to stimulate either training for non-traditional employment or innovative and effective use of child care services for JTPA participants?
- 9) What plans are being made by PIC regarding California's changing population and economy and its job training and development needs, especially with regard to the educational and employment needs of female heads of households?

- 10) Do the PIC plans address these concerns? Does the plans adequately explain who is targeted for services, the kinds of jobs available, and the kinds of services in the context of a changing population and economy?
- 11) What special programs are designated for older women? What considerations has PIC given to displaced homemakers as displaced workers? Has there been consideration of placing displaced homemakers under the definition of "long-term unemployed?" How much of the 10% set aside for non-economically disadvantaged is being used to train displaced homemakers?
- 12) Considering the quantitative leap in premature parenthood in California, are there any local programs designed for teen mothers? Are teen mothers encouraged to participate in summer youth programs? If so, is child care available?
- 13) Is PIC using their incentive funds to develop model programs for non-traditional employment of women or child care services?
- 14) What are the linkages between the Welfare Departments and PIC?
- 15) What kinds of technical assistance programs have been provided by PIC to help increase job training and placement performance for women?
- 16) Is job retention affected once a trained graduate's child care subsidy is discontinued?
- 17) Income disregard continues for AFDC recipients for four months. Has PIC considered evaluating training and employment six months after placement to provide a more complete assessment of services needed for single heads of households?
- 18) How does PIC ensure that training reflects labor market trends for employment?
- 19) What JTPA regulations are seen by PIC staff as unnecessary obstacles to serve women with multiple barriers to employment?
- 20) If, on intake, it is determined that a woman is not an appropriate candidate for JTPA services, is there a linkage system in place to refer her to other agencies for job training?
- 21) With the information reporting system, is it possible to study:
 - (a) Comparative wages before enrollment and after training by gender, race, age, income eligibility and non-income eligibility?
 - (b) Comparative job retention (3, 6, or 12 months) after training by gender, race, age, income eligibility and non-income eligibility?
 - (c) A profile of eligible participants that reflects need for support services, pre-training, and remediation? If a proportion of women are in this pool, but not served, is there information on what is screening them out?
 - (d) Statistics by gender, race, and age for placement in on-the-job training and classroom training? Comparative wages gained after on-the-job training, or classroom training?

Monday, June 30, 1986

- (e) Employment training and support services for women with age factors broken down into smaller increments than the present 22 to 44 age grouping, which does not allow effective study of employment needs of the young mother, the displaced homemaker, widow, or divorcee?

By Supervisor Kopp, that City Attorney prepare appropriate legislation amending Section 63 of the Traffic Code which would exempt vehicles weighing two tons or less from the prohibition against commercial vehicles parking for more than one hour in residential neighborhoods.

The President reassumed the Chair.
